

Condolence Letter

Assignment:

Write a letter from the perspective of an early hominid, apologizing for “phasing out” the hominid that came before.

Explanation:

-For instance, Australopithecus may apologize for phasing out earlier hominids because it had the ability to walk on two legs.

-In the letter, Australopithecus would highlight the advantages it had over earlier hominids that allowed its species to outsurvive other hominids

Guidelines:

-Think back to the example I read in class for a model. I will have the model available to review during class.

-Assignment is worth 10 points

Grog is happy to be named best dressed man of 8006 B.C.

Grading: Details are correctly used to support statements

10: Details relate directly to the question and are used to fully support the answer.

9: Some details are used to answer the question, but are limited in number or clarity.

8: Details are present, but lack clarity and substance.

7: Few details are present, are not clear and question is not answered.

[illegible]